

I think that this would decrease the safety that aircrafts have had in the past. It would increase the use of the airspace, but this would clutter the sky with more airlines. The airspace should not be cluttered with more aircrafts even if they are installed with equipment that could allow less seperation. If an emergency or system malfunction occurred, the airliner could be in danger.